Before you sign

1. Compare the horse's markings, microchip, brand or tattoo with its registration papers or health records, and with this form.
2. Check each party's name and address against photo ID, and the seller's name against the registration papers, if any.
3. Write the agreed sale price. Record the amount received so far and any balance separately; only say "paid in full" when it is.
4. Write down what the seller discloses about health, soundness, vices and veterinary history in section 2. A pre-purchase exam by the buyer's own veterinarian is the usual way to check.
5. Mark only the lien and condition statements that are true. Boarding stables and veterinarians can hold a lien on a horse in some states; ask before you pay.
6. A negative Coggins test, a health certificate or a brand inspection may be required before the horse is moved or sold, depending on the state; check before the horse travels. Registration papers are transferred through the breed registry, usually on its own transfer form. This form does not replace any of these.
7. Sign and date in each other's presence. A witness or notary is only needed when your state or the asset requires one. Keep a signed copy each.
